Revealed During Briefing Day

Character-specific costumes & makeup provided to help you immerse in your roles!

Bootcamp Remake Scene #1

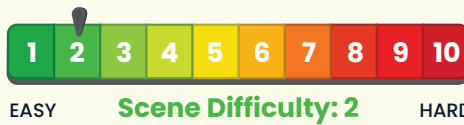

Ah Boys To Men 2 新兵正传 2

Remake Scene Adapted From The Original Movie

In this scene, you will experience the strict discipline and intense interrogation style enforced by superiors in a military setting.

A group of army recruits helps their friend, Ip Man, after he finds out his girlfriend cheated on him. They come up with crazy ways to try to contact her, only to find out she's now with a guy who calls himself "Real Bullet." Things get out of hand when they try to make a revenge video using their illegal camera phone. When the sergeant shows up for a spot check, the recruits seem oddly prepared, making him suspicious. After a series of silly mistakes and hiding their illegal phone, the recruits come together and prove how strong their brotherhood is.

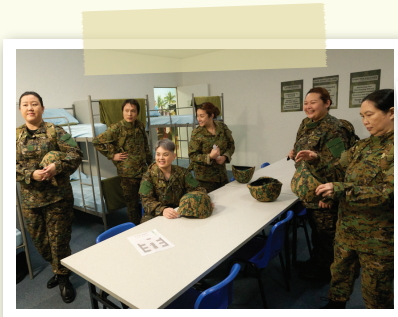

Character-specific costume and makeup provided!

Film in realistic filming sets with real production crew

Rehearse & film in fully renovated sets just like the actual movies!

Receive a professionally edited 10-15 minutes reel showcasing the best takes from the scene.

*Final reel duration depends on the script and director's vision.

Bootcamp Remake Scene #2

Long Long Time Ago 2 我们的故事 2

Remake Scene Adapted From The Original Movie

In this scene, you will experience family conflict caused by greed and suppressed grievances accumulated through the years.

In 1977, the Government reclaims land for redevelopment and licensed farm owners like Zhao Di receives monetary compensation for their land. At the dining table, Ah Kun makes an unreasonable demand to share the compensation with Zhao Di, sparking discontent among everyone present. This leads to a conflict with Su Ting, Ah Xi, Rani, Zhao Di, Ah Feng, Fourth Aunt, and Ah Long, where each person reveals their struggles in life and exposes Ah Kun's scheme to exploit Zhao Di's compensation.

This scene combines two moments from the original movie: Ah Kun's unreasonable request during the family dinner and Su Ting's subsequent tirade against him. The scene is filled with tension and conflict, providing ample opportunity for the actors to showcase their skills.

Bootcamp Remake Scene #3

Money No Enough 3 钱不够用3

Remake Scene Adapted From The Original Movie

In this scene, you will experience the turmoil of broken friendships as trust is shattered by disputes and betrayal over money.

In the porridge shop, Ah Qiang and Ah Hui learn from a TV news report that their investment venture with Ah Huang has gone bust. When Hui's wife discovers this, she flies into a rage, chastising Ah Hui and Ah Qiang for their foolishness in blindly following Ah Huang's investment scheme. Ah Huang later appears, brazenly defending himself and even attempting to seize Ah Hui's shop. Just as Ah Qiang and Ah Hui struggle to withstand Ah Huang's aggressive tactics, Kim arrives at a critical moment. Tearfully and passionately, Kim condemns her father's cold-hearted actions and decisively cuts ties with him, standing up for justice over family loyalty. This scene requires actors to convey a range of intense emotions, from despair and anger to betrayal and moral conviction. The dynamics should reflect the tension of broken trust, the desperation of conflict, and the emotional weight of standing up for justice over family loyalty.

Bootcamp Original Scene

Time To Unleash Your Full Potential
 Perform your very best in this original scene with the experience gained from the first three scenes!

War In The Palace 宫斗攻略

In this scene, you will immerse yourself in the psychological warfare and unease in ancient China, where the uncertainty of survival as a lowly official looms over every decision made by the higher ups.

This original scene is a period piece set in ancient China. The palace is thrown into chaos when the head eunuch discovers a deadly plague has infiltrated its walls, causing widespread fear among the court. The rivaling Empress Dowager and Empress seize the opportunity to eliminate each other and their adversaries, both ordering the imperial physician to conduct mandatory testing on all officials. Anyone confirmed to have contracted the plague is to be immediately executed at the Meridian Gate.

Terrified of the plague's deadly nature and the looming threat of execution, many in the court attempt to evade testing with various excuses. However, the Empress Dowager and Empress cunningly orchestrate the systematic elimination of those they consider threats. Wei Shenmo devises a brilliant plan to save the innocent, turning the tables on the schemers. In an ironic twist, the Emperor orders the execution of both the Empress Dowager and the Empress, bringing justice to the palace and delivering a satisfying conclusion.
